

Teleflex to Attend the Society of Critical Care Medicine's 44th Annual Critical Care Medicine Congress

January 14, 2015

Teleflex will highlight the ARROW® EZ-IO® Vascular Access System and its applications for rapid response teams

WAYNE, Pa.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 14, 2015-- Teleflex Incorporated (NYSE: TFX), a leading global provider of medical devices for critical care and surgery, will be showcasing its broad portfolio of vascular access solutions including Intraosseous Devices, CVCs, JACCs, Arterial Lines and PICCs at the 44th annual Society of Critical Care Medicine, booth 801, January 17-21, 2015 in Phoenix, AZ. Teleflex is a leading supplier of innovative vascular access technology for the critical care environment.

A key product of focus will be the ARROW® EZ-IO® Intraosseous Vascular Access System. The ARROW® EZ-IO® System is a complete solution for rapid vascular access — whether you're facing difficult vascular access challenges or need fast intraosseous access for critical situations and life-threatening emergencies.

Teleflex will also be sponsoring an educational symposium entitled, "Rapid Response and Code Teams: Equipping Your Team." This symposium will review best practice concepts to rapid response and code situations, the newest solutions to optimal rapid response outcomes and methods to improve rapid response team effectiveness.

"Critical care is a key area of focus for the Teleflex Vascular Access Division. We are proud to offer a wide variety of vascular access options to clinicians; from our flagship products, CVCs and Arterial lines to technologies like Intraosseous Access with the ARROW® EZ-IO® Vascular Access System," stated Jay White, President of the Teleflex Vascular Access Division. "We provide both product and education to drive meaningful change in the specialty of vascular access."
