

Cristina Iaboni Joins Taylor Morrison as Chief Human Resources Officer

January 9, 2015

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 9, 2015-- Taylor Morrison Home Corporation (NYSE:TMHC), a leading homebuilder and developer in North America, today announced that Cristina "Cris" Iaboni has joined the Company as Chief Human Resources Officer (CHRO), reporting directly to Sheryl Palmer, Chief Executive Officer.

In her new role, Ms. Iaboni will oversee the human resources function for the organization. She will be responsible for creating and executing Taylor Morrison's human resources strategy to best support the Company's long-term growth plans.

"As Taylor Morrison continues to grow and bring in new, high-quality individuals, it is integral that we have the leadership in place to ensure that our team members are being supported and developed," said Sheryl Palmer, CEO. "Cris brings to Taylor Morrison over 20 years of human resources experience with a track record of facilitating change and creating success. We take pride in maintaining a workplace where talent is fostered and recognized. I am very pleased to welcome Cris to our team and look forward to working together."

Most recently, Ms. Iaboni was SVP and CHRO of BJ's Wholesale Club, a large wholesale retailer, where she was brought on by new private equity owners to lead the human resources transformation of the organization. Prior to BJ's, she spent over 11 years at EMCOR Group, Inc., a $5 billion company with 25,000 employees worldwide. During her tenure, Ms. Iaboni advanced from Director of Human Resources to CHRO, and was responsible for managing the Human Resources function, with a focus on developing a cohesive human resources strategy in a decentralized structure, and building the human resources infrastructure and team.

"I am thrilled to be joining Taylor Morrison, a company that has a strong reputation for attracting, developing and retaining the best people in the industry," said Ms. Iaboni. "I am confident that my experience will allow me and my team to continue to enhance the quality of our organization and the talent of our people."

Ms. Iaboni holds a B.A. in Political Science and Economics from Trinity College and an M.S. in Industrial Relations from the University of New Haven. She holds a Certificate in Global Human Resource Management from Duke University.
