Kensington® Introduces New KeyLite™ Ultra Slim Folio, Plus Security and Power Accessories for Top Selling Tablets

January 10, 2012

For iPad® 2, Kindle® Fire, or Galaxy Tab™, Kensington Offers the Essentials to Keep Tablets Protected and Connected Everywhere

Redwood Shores, Calif. – January 10, 2012 - Kensington Computer Products Group, a worldwide leader in delivering smart. safe. simple.™ computing accessories, today introduced its KeyLite™ Ultra Slim Touch Keyboard Folio for iPad® 2, and a variety of security, productivity, and power products to enhance top selling tablets. The new tablet companions are designed to improve user experiences with their device of choice—including models made by Apple®, Samsung®, Amazon®, Motorola®, or other tablet manufacturers.

Tailored for the mobile user and frequent traveler is the new KeyLite™ Ultra Slim Touch Keyboard Folio for iPad® 2. The keyboard folio case leverages the latest in touch sensitive technology and offers a unique blend of sleek style, versatility and durability. Further expanding its offering of tablet accessories is Kensington's SecureBack™ Security Case with 2-Way Stand & ClickSafe® Lock for Samsung Galaxy Tab™. The case works with the ClickSafe lock and acts as a first line of defense to physically safeguard tablets at all times, with just one click.

New to the popular Kensington line of universal AbsolutePower™ accessories are dual USB wall chargers to power two tablets, smartphones, or USB-charged mobile devices simultaneously. The chargers are compatible with iPad, iPhone®, and iPod® devices or tablets from Samsung, Amazon, and Motorola. Kensington's Chaise™ Universal Tablet Stand makes productivity easy to achieve with a compact and stylish design that works comfortably with iPad, Samsung, Amazon or Motorola anywhere. Two new Virtuoso™ Styluses include a 2-in-1 stylus and pen to capture ideas with a twist and a mini collapsible stylus that docks securely to iPhone or iPad.

Kensington's latest collection of tablet accessories is built to support the growing offering of tablet computers from multiple manufacturers. In fact, Forrester Research[1] projects that by 2015, 82 million US consumers—or 1 in 3 Americans—will be using a tablet. With an array of options to choose from, consumers can count on Kensington to provide the essential products they need to stay connected, protected, and productive with the devices they use the most.

"We know our customers consider tablets much more than just a device—they are a way of life. We strive to offer accessories that not only keep up, but improve, their always-connected lifestyle," said George Foot, Vice President of Marketing & Development, Kensington. "As the tablet market continues to grow it is natural for us to continue providing all of the essentials our customers need to make their tablet computing the best experience possible."
