

Canadian Credit Union Association Selects Diebold Nixdorf As Strategic Partner To Support More Than 300 Credit Unions Across Canada

October 4, 2016

TORONTO, Oct. 4, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- The Canadian Credit Union Association (CCUA), which represents more than 300 credit unions and caisses populaires outside of Quebec, is partnering with Diebold Nixdorf to transform the financial self-service landscape for its members. More than 1,200 Diebold Nixdorf automated teller machines (ATMs) with supporting software and maintenance services will be installed over the next three and a half years.

"By partnering with Diebold Nixdorf, we can reduce costs, improve service delivery, offer more comprehensive and innovative technologies, and best-in-class services to our member credit unions," said Martha Durdin, president and CEO, Canadian Credit Union Association.

With the addition of Diebold Nixdorf's VISTA multivendor software platform, CCUA member credit unions will be able to provide seamless banking services across all channels and maximize the efficiencies of their ATM networks. This advanced ATM software provides the flexibility to quickly implement advanced technologies in the future as well as the ability to deliver a more outstanding member experience.

"Our partnership with the CCUA affirms Diebold Nixdorf as a strong leader in self-service solutions for financial institutions in Canada," said Bruce Pearce, Diebold Nixdorf vice president and general manager, Canada. "We look forward to growing our relationship in a true partnership fashion --- giving credit unions direct access to best-in-class technology and service as we continue to drive connected commerce across the financial services industry."
