

Diebold Nixdorf Global Software Development Center Certified For ISO 9001:2008 Standard

February 8, 2017

MUMBAI, India – Diebold Nixdorf, a world leader in enabling connected commerce for millions of consumers across the financial and retail industries, today announced that its global software development center in Mumbai, India, has recently been awarded the ISO 9001:2008 Management System certificate. This certification is based on quality management principles including sustainable growth, strong customer focus, governance and involvement of top management, process approach, and continual improvement and review for the design, development and support of self-service software products. The audit was conducted by the Bureau Veritas Certification India under accreditation of UKAS.

Diebold Nixdorf's global development center underwent a comprehensive analysis by independent auditors from Bureau Veritas. The appraisal recognized the center's innovative global processes for their high level of detail and maturity. The Mumbai center plays a key role in the company's position as a leading provider of self-service application software. The center now looks forward to enhancing the certification in 2017 by conforming to the ISO 9001:2015 standard.

"We are delighted to receive the ISO 9001:2008 certification. This major achievement demonstrates strong alignment of our quality processes and business objectives, which lead to enhanced experiences for our customers," said Jayal Lakhani, vice president, global software engineering for Diebold Nixdorf. "Our commitment to continuous process improvement through engineering excellence enabled this important ISO certification. We are honored to be among the select few development centers in our industry to receive this level of accreditation."
