"I am excited for Juergen to take on this major leadership role. His experience in management and process improvement will be invaluable as we shift the company's integration into high gear," said Andy W. Mattes, chief executive officer, Diebold Nixdorf. "Also, I want to personally thank Eckard for being a crucial partner in making Diebold Nixdorf a reality. His leadership was paramount in the successful transition of our new company."

In his role, Wunram's responsibilities will include integration, IT, security, quality, indirect procurement, the EMEA business, as well as the company's retail business and Aevi subsidiary. He will be based in Germany. Wunram served as the chief financial officer (CFO) and COO, and a member of the executive board for Wincor Nixdorf AG, since 2007. In 2013, he was also appointed deputy CEO for the company. Prior to joining Wincor Nixdorf, Wunram was a director at McKinsey & Company where he served as a consultant since 1992. He led McKinsey's Hamburg office and was a member of the leadership team for the European High-Tech Sector and Operations Practice. Wunram has a doctorate in mathematics from the University of Hamburg, Germany.

Since joining Nixdorf Computer AG in 1983, Heidloff held a series of leadership positions in both the retail and financial self-service businesses that played a key role in shaping the company's success over the years. He was appointed CFO and COO for Wincor Nixdorf AG in 2004. In 2007, Heidloff was named the company's president and chief executive officer. Heidloff has a Diplom Kaufmann in business administration from the University of Paderborn.
