EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

U-Haul Holding Company (NYSE: UHAL) reported financial results for 3Q FY2024 on February 7th. During the first nine months of fiscal 2024, the company has experienced modest single-digit declines in U-Move-related revenues. Despite this impact on demand, the company's 4-year top-line CAGR (using the first nine months of fiscal 2024 versus the first nine months of fiscal 2020, which smooths the effect of the pandemic) is 9.44%. Also, despite the 2.6% decline in total revenues in the third fiscal quarter, the company achieved the 3rd highest level of total revenues of any third quarter in the company's history.

Management continues to invest in the truck rental fleet, U-Box products and self-storage business. The company's net capex budget on new rental equipment has been increased twice during FY2024 from $820 million initially to now $930 million for the full fiscal 2024. During the first nine months of fiscal 2024, $1,350 million gross has been spent on new rental trucks. Also, the company continues to invest in digital tools in order to facilitate customer engagement as well as to better understand customer behavior and current market trends. Management's steady commitment to long-term investments has permitted U-Haul to benefit from step-up increases in demand, most recently during the pandemic.

U-Haul has a strong liquidity position. The Moving and Storage operating segment has approximately $2.21 billion of cash and available credit, which enables management to purchase of self-moving equipment, even if the credit markets make debt financing problematical. Furthermore, management continues to develop self-storage facilities. A typical self-storage project requires approximately three years to develop from acquisition to opening, and the long term prospects for the industry remain positive.

Financial Results for Third Quarter of Fiscal 2024

On February 7, 2024 after the market close, U-Haul Holding Company reported financial results for the third fiscal quarter ending December 31, 2023. Total revenues decreased 2.6% YOY to approximately $1.34 billion. Self-moving equipment rentals decreased by 6.6% (or $59.0 million) as the softness experienced in the first and second fiscal quarters continued into third fiscal quarter as the metrics of the number of transactions, revenue and average miles driven per transaction decreased with declines in the one-way business being more apparent. Other revenues (which are predominately driven by U-Box) increased 4.8% (or $4.6 million). Self-storage revenues increased 10.5% (or $20.0 million).

Management has made progress toward returning to a normalized rotation program. Though the company has not purchased as many new vehicles as desired due to both the lack of availability of certain truck models and the artificial price increases imposed from the truck manufacturers' emphasis on EVs, $1,350 million gross spent on new rental trucks during the first nine months of fiscal 2024. During the quarter, the net capex budget for the full fiscal year (gross purchases net of proceeds) was increased from $870 to $930 million.

In self-moving/self-storage products & services, revenue decreased 6.0% (or $4.5 million), which was due to lower sales of hitches, moving supplies and propane.

In the self-storage area, revenues increased 10.5% (or $20.03 million) as the average monthly number of occupied units at company-owned locations increased by 5.7% (or 38,046 units) and on a 3.8% improvement in average revenue per occupied foot. However, occupancy rates decreased

110 basis points YOY from 82.9% to 81.8% because new capacity over the last 12 months expanded by 42,000 new storage units (4.4 million net rentable square feet).

U-Haul Holding Company FY 2023 Annual Report

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY OF MANAGEMENT'S U-HAUL GROWTH STRATEGY

Management's goal is to be the predominant provider of moving and storage services for "do-it-yourself" consumers in North America through U-Haul International. The company has developed complementary verticals to better serve its customers, from moving supplies (boxes, tape etc.) and trailer hitches to ancillary products/services, such as the filling of propane tanks and specialty extension services, such as U-Box (portable moving and storage units) and eMove (an online marketplace of independent moving and self-storage affiliates).

U-HAUL is one of the leading companies in the self-storage industry (the third largest self-storage operation in North America), a complementary operation and logical extension of its self-moving business.

U-HAUL also owns holds two insurance companies: a property & casualty company (Repwest Insurance) that offers rental coverage to customers (through Safemove, Safetow and Safestor policies) and a life insurance company (Oxford Life Insurance), initially held for insuring employees, but later expanded into specialty lines.

U-HAUL Annual Revenues

U-Haul maintains and continually enlarges a fleet of rental equipment, including trucks, trailers and towing devices. Historically, revenue growth has been achieved by

- Growing the distribution network
  - The number of company's retail locations has grown at a 5-year CAGR of 4.21%
- Increasing the size of the fleet
  - The truck fleet has grown at a 10-year CAGR of 5.55%
  - The trailer fleet has grown at a 10-year CAGR of 4.40%
- Expanding the self-storage footprint
  - The number of self-storage locations has grown at a 10-year CAGR of 4.90%
  - The number of rentable units has grown at a 10-year CAGR of 7.87%
  - The rentable square footage has grown at a 10-year CAGR of 7.34%

As a result, U-HAUL's revenues have increased at a 5-year CAGR of 10.25%.

Operationally, management strives to maximize vehicle utilization by adjusting the distribution of the truck and trailer fleets among the over 2,200 company stores and approximately 21,300 independent stores. The company's earning leverage is highly dependent on equipment utilization as well as pricing and volume. The critical factor of vehicle utilization in the truck rental business hinges on the geographical distribution of the fleet after one-way rentals, since U-Haul does not back-haul equipment. Traditionally, pricing has been the method by which equipment can be relocated.

In order to maintain the company's top-line growth trajectory, management must allocate an appropriate level of investments into the retail fleet network, the fleet itself (with new trucks, trailers and towing devices) and the self-storage business. Over the past decade, management has consistently increased the total number of rental trucks in the fleet with new additions exceeding the number of trucks removed for retirement. Hence, management also faces the challenges of executing its fleet rotation program, requiring both the procurement of truck chassis from North American manufacturers and the retirement of vehicles through the used-truck sales market.

MOVING & STORAGE OPERATIONS

Self-Moving

The company also has a storage facility network with thousands of independent service providers participating as Storage Affiliates. The company has at least six different truck models and eight major types of trailers. The truck chassis are engineered by domestic truck manufacturers and made to U-Haul's specifications. The chassis are delivered to one of seven U-Haul manufacturing centers to be fitted with a cargo box. These manufacturing centers also build the trailers from the "ground up." Eleven (11) manufacturing and assembly facilities are strategically located throughout the United States in order to efficiently provide vehicles regionally.

Commonality of features (gear boxes, rear axles, tires, etc.) and parts reduce maintenance expenses and improve the efficiency of the parts inventory. All engines are gasoline powered to potential fueling problems. The company provides almost all of the preventive maintenance on the fleet with the exception of warranty claims. U-Haul dealers also offer moving supplies, including a wide variety of U-Haul-brand boxes, tape and packing materials. In addition, specialty boxes are available for dishes, computers, other electronic equipment, hanging clothes, etc.

U-Haul is one of the most recognized names in the world and has a commanding share of the consumer self-moving business. The company is the consumer's number one choice as the largest installer of permanent trailer hitches in the automotive aftermarket industry. U-Haul's brand awareness is very high. A survey of public brand identification of truck manufacturers placed U-Haul second behind Mack Truck, even though U-Haul does not make trucks. The name U-Haul is as well-known as Kleenex (Kimberly-Clark), Coke (The Coca-Cola Company) and Clorox. U-Haul trucks often appear in movies and television without U-HAUL having to pay for advertising.

Independent dealers receive trucks on a consignment basis and are paid a commission based on gross revenue generated by the dealer. The independent dealers are not franchisees. U-Haul does not franchise its name. Dealer contracts can be terminated upon 30 days written notice by either party.

To further leverage U-HAUL's web-based technology platform, the company developed eMove®, an online marketplace that connects consumers with a network of affiliates of independent moving service providers and independent self-storage affiliates that have been vetted by U-Haul. Through MovingHelp.com, service providers can provide help to pack and load items while the Storage

Affiliates offer self-storage services where U-Haul may not have facilities that are conveniently located for the consumer.

AMERCO Presentation August 2020

A component of the truck rental fleet is the disposal of trucks that are removed from the fleet for retirement. Typically, as new trucks are added to the fleet, older (high mileage) trucks are sold. This dynamic process affects fleet size, non-cash depreciation charges, proceeds from the sale of retired trucks (which are dependent on the strength/weakness of the used truck market) and the availability of rentable trucks.

Furthermore, U-Haul sells and installs a broad range of hitches and components for towing trailers, boats, jet skis, motorcycles, campers, horse trailers etc. Management believes that U-Haul is the largest seller and installer of hitches and towing systems in North America.

U-Haul is also one of the largest refillers of propane tanks in North America, primarily for alternative-fuel vehicles and backyard barbecues. The company's trained and certified personnel provide propane at nearly 1,200 locations.

The moving truck and trailer rental industry is large and highly competitive. There are two distinct users of rental trucks: commercial and "do-it-yourself" residential users. U-HAUL focuses primarily on the "do-it-yourself" residential user and is the largest self-moving company with over 50% of the applicable market. There are few large competitors and new entrants have found it difficult to achieve a significant market share. Within this segment, the company's major competitors are Avis Budget Group, Inc. (NASDAQ: CAR) and Penske Truck Leasing (a closely-held company). Enterprise Rent-a-Car (a private holding company) started a small truck service, which targets the light local delivery business.

Consumer self-moving and self-storage are relatively single-digit, top-line growth industries (around 5% annually). However, both are highly fragmented industries; therefore, there are opportunities to gain market share. Both industries are less cyclical than most, since in bad times some people downgrade their living quarters (and some move back in with their parents) and use self-storage and consumer truck rental to move and store their belongings. In good economies, people move up-scale from small apartments to larger ones or to houses.

Storage

The primary market for storage rooms is for the storage of household goods. U-Haul serves millions of 'do-it-yourself' household moving customers annually. A large number of renters use a rental truck or trailer to move goods in or out of the storage facilities. It was a logical extension of the do-it-yourself-moving business to be also in the self-storage industry.

U-Haul operates almost 949,000 rentable storage units, comprising approximately 81.2 million square feet of storage space in all 50 United States and 10 Canadian provinces. The target market for the rental of storage units is for the storage of household goods. Individual storage units range in size from 6 square feet to over 1,000 square feet. The company's provide competitive self-storage services, such as an electronic system that monitors the storage facility 24 hours a day (Max Security), access during extended hours and individually alarmed units. Many locations include climate controlled facilities, which is a growing trend in the self-storage industry.

INSURANCE OPERATIONS

U-HAUL has two insurance subsidiaries, Repwest Insurance Company (Property and Casualty) and Oxford Life (Health, Life and Annuities). These companies were originally set up to serve U-Haul employees and the U-Haul dealers (many of whom were one proprietor gas station owners that were not able to obtain low priced insurance). However, over the years, both insurance subsidiaries branched out into other lines of insurance. Oxford Life and Repwest have usually been profitable over the last eight years. U-HAUL decided to scale back Repwest's operations, and the casualty business now only insures U-Haul's risks. Oxford Life is focused on Medicare supplement, annuities and life insurance.

A number of years ago U-HAUL, formed a relationship through Mark Shoen called SAC that allowed the company to expand U-Haul-managed self-storage locations. U-HAUL sold real estate to SAC in return for debt and managed the storage properties for a fee. The debt was paid down by SAC in 2012.

Repwest will continue to provide loss adjusting and claims handling for U-Haul and underwrite components of the Safemove, Safetow and Safestor protection packages to U-Haul customers. Repwest has started to grow again and its revenue is tied to the operations of moving and storage. Oxford is pursuing its goals of expanding its presence in the senior market through the sales of its Medicare supplement, life and annuity policies.

Repwest Insurance Company is rated A by A.M. Best, having been upgraded on September 24, 2020).

Oxford Life Insurance is rated A by A.M. Best, having been upgraded from A- on July 30, 2021. Oxford is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

The insurance industry is highly competitive with a large number of life insurance companies and property and casualty insurance companies. In addition, the marketplace includes financial services firms offering both insurance and financial products. Some of the insurance companies are owned by stockholders and others are mutual companies that are owned by policyholders. Many competitors have been in business for a longer period of time or possess substantially greater financial resources and broader product portfolios than U-HAUL's insurance companies. The company competes in the insurance business based upon price, product design, and services rendered to agents and policyholders.

VALUATION

U-HAUL operates in both the "do-it-yourself" consumer truck and trailer rental business and in the self-storage industry. The vehicle rental business requires considerable investment in infrastructure (rental facilities and vehicles). Earnings in this segment tend to exhibit cyclicity, which is a consequence of the substantial earnings leverage that can be derived from improved utilization of the fleet. On the other hand, despite also requiring a significant investment in infrastructure (storage buildings), self-storage operations tend to be much less cyclical and provide steady cash flow.

From an investment perspective, both types of operations are generally valued on the metric of EV-to-EBITDA (Enterprise Value-to-Earnings Before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization). From the Industry Comparable table below, it is easily observable that self-storage operations are valued at a much higher EV-to-EBITDA basis (18.8 on average compared to only 5.0 for truck rental companies) due to each industry's fundamental attributes described above. Due to the small sample size of public truck rental companies (since Penske and Enterprise are not publicly traded), the EV-to-EBITDA metric is distorted.

RISKS

- U-Haul's business is subject to many economic factors that are not included in our forecasts. These include the impact of high fuel costs, significant economic downturns, and a substantial decline in housing starts, among others.
- Revenues (and therefore earnings) are seasonal, due to changes in consumer behavior as the weather changes. It is assumed that past weather conditions continue to be relatively the same over the quarterly time frames of the past.
- U-Haul purchases truck chassis from a limited number of domestic manufacturers e.g. Ford Motor Company and General Motors Corporation. If the production or quality of product is hindered, it could have a negative impact on U-HAUL's operations and stock price.
- U-Haul maintains a large fleet of rental equipment. The company's rental truck fleet rotation program is funded internally through operations and externally from debt and lease financing. A challenging financial market could adversely affect the company's fleet rotation program.
- Another important aspect of U-Haul's fleet rotation program is the sale of used rental equipment. The sale of used equipment provides the organization with funds that can be used to purchase new equipment. However, at times, the used rental equipment market weakens in response to various economic factors. During such times of weak pricing and the near absence of demand, the company's financial results could be adversely affected by increasing depreciation expense, losses on the sale of retired equipment (due to net proceeds on sales falling short of estimated residual values) and decreases in expected cash flows from the sales of used equipment.
