TRI Pointe Group continues to strengthen its core with a dedication to employee development. The company promotes cross-divisional collaboration in sales, marketing, construction, purchasing, community and home design, customer care, and design studios through a series of hosted think tanks and summits to enhance staff understanding of best practices, expand leadership and expertise, and create goals to improve results and foster continued employee growth. One such event is the annual TRI Pointe Group Sales and Marketing 'Think Tank,' an interactive educational event for the company's sales and marketing leaders aimed at expanding collaboration across all team members and moving the company forward in its goal of being a family of premium lifestyle brands on par with the leading retail brands outside the homebuilding industry. Previous Think Tanks have included visits to Google, REI, Pirch, Restoration Hardware, Local Motors, Facebook and more.

TRI Pointe and its homebuilding brands encourage and advocate for community service projects periodically by hosting charitable events during the work day and encouraging employees to donate their time, talent, and passion to charitable organizations throughout their local areas, including the companies' national charitable partner, HomeAid America, a leading national non-profit provider of housing for homeless individuals and families.

All of TRI Pointe's brands proudly participate in LivingSmart®, TRI Pointe Group's program that involves the development, design, construction, and ongoing operation of high-performing homes, resulting in cost savings for its homeowners and a better living environment. These same principles are also carried over to the company's office environments.
